Carolina's basketball Tar Heels have one of the largest and most enthusiastic press followings in America and interest is growing greater every year.

The Carmichael Auditorium press box is filled to capacity for every home game. Every daily newspaper in the state of North Carolina, and many from surrounding states, cover all the Tar Heel games.

Carolina's Basketball Radio Network is one of the largest and best in the entire nation. Tar Heel games can be heard from the Bahamas to Canada. The network is handled by WCHL Radio in Chapel Hill with Jim Heavner serving as manager. Woody Durham, popular sportscaster at WFMY-TV in Greensboro, does the play-by-play with Heavner and Bob Holliday of WCHL providing color commentary.

Durham is also emcee on the Dean Smith Show which is televised across the state of North Carolina each week of the season.

At least 10 Carolina games are scheduled to be televised regionally during the upcoming season on the Atlantic Coast Conference Game of the Week. Two of those games will also be national telecasts.

Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be secured by contacting Rick Brewer, the University's Sports Information Director. Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, spouses and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Basketball Writers Association of America.

Western Union facilities are not available in Carmichael Auditorium. However, the Carolina Sports Information Office does provide several phones for writers to use in moving their copy. The University also has one telecopier which is available on a first-come, first-serve basis after each game. It is strongly suggested, however, that whenever possible, writers bring their own telecopiers. This will allow all copy to be moved more quickly and will alleviate any deadline problems.

Prospects

With four starters returning from last year's great team, the North Carolina Tar Heels are hopeful that 1976-77 will be another excellent season on the basketball court.

Carolina posted a sensational 25-4 record a year ago, including an 11-1 mark and a first-place finish in the Atlantic Coast Conference regular season race. The Tar Heels now have an incredible string of 10 straight years in which they have finished either first or second in the ACC standings. Carolina once again finished in the nation's Top Ten.

"I think we can again have an outstanding team," says Carolina Coach Dean Smith. "However, it will be nearly impossible for us to equal last year's great record. We play an extremely difficult schedule and we have lost three valuable players to graduation."

Gone from last year's team are All-America Mitch Kupchak, one of the best frontcourt players in ACC history, and two key reserves, Bill Chambers and Dave Hanners. Kupchak had a brilliant Carolina career. His rebounding, defense and leadership will be hard to replace.

However, the Tar Heels do return four starters. They are All-America guard Phil Ford, a 6-2 junior from Rocky Mount, N. C.; Walter Davis, 6-6 senior forward from Pineville, N. C.; John Kuester, 6-3 senior guard from Richmond, Va.; and Tommy LaGarde, 6-10 senior frontcourt player from Detroit, Mich.

Ford and Kuester form one of the finest backcourts in the nation. Phil made almost every All-America team last year as a sophomore. He led the Tar Heels with a school record 203 assists, averaged 18.6 points per game, hit 53.2 per cent of his field goals and made 78.0 per cent of his foul shots. He is an excellent ballhandler and a good defensive player.

Kuester ranked second to Ford in assists with 154. He also was voted Carolina's best defensive player. John is a good outside shooter and ballhandler.

"I expect both Phil and John to show even more improvement this year," says Smith. "I also feel that LaGarde and Davis, who had what I consider sensational years last season, will be better."

LaGarde led Carolina in both field goal and free throw shooting last season. He had a percentage of 61.2 from the field and 80.9 from the line. He grabbed 221 rebounds in 29 games and averaged 14.4 points per contest. He also did a good job defensively. LaGarde will move to Kupchak's old position this year and his rebounding total should increase.

Davis had a great all-around year. He was Carolina's overall statistical leader and a second-team All-ACC selection. Walter was third on the team in scoring, rebounding and assists, had a team-high 71 steals, shot 54.1 per cent from the floor and 77.7 from the line and played excellent defense.

Carolina's other returning players are 6-9 senior Bruce Buckley of Bladensburg, Md.; 6-7 senior Woody Coley of Lumberton, N. C.; 6-5 junior Tom Zaliagiris of Livonia, Mich.; 6-5 sophomore Dudley Bradley of Edgewood, Md.; 6-1 sophomore Ged Doughton of Winston-Salem, N. C.; and 6-4 sophomore Randy Wiel of Curacao in the Netherlands Antilles.

Doughton and Wiel played mainly on the junior varsity last season, while the other returnees saw action with Carolina's Blue Team.

"Buckley, Chambers, Zaliagiris, Bradley, Coley and Hanners gave us good depth last year," says Smith. "With Bill and Dave gone, that depth must be bolstered by our incoming freshman class."

The freshmen include 6-1 Dave Colescott of Marion, Ind.; 6-9 Steve Krafcisin of Oak Lawn, Ill.; 6-7 Mike O'Koren of Jersey City, N. J.; 6-5 John Virgil of Elm City, N. C.; 6-10 Jeff Wolf of Kohler, Wis.; and 6-9 Rich Yonakor of Euclid, Ohio.

The fifth starting spot in the Tar Heel lineup could go to Buckley or one of Carolina's big freshmen. Buckley was the top frontcourt reserve last year and showed good promise with his consistently strong play.

Carolina will be trying to uphold a great basketball tradition this season. The Tar Heels rank with UCLA and Marquette as the three winningest teams in America in the past decade.

In that 10-year period, Smith has coached his teams to 246 victories. Only Al McGuire of Marquette (248) has won more. Smith has won more ACC championships (five) than any coach in the league's storied history.

Although Carolina won the ACC regular-season title by four games last year, Smith feels the league race will be closer this season.

"Despite the fact we were 11-1 last year and the second-place teams were each 7-5, I still think we had good balance in the ACC," he says. "Most of the games were very close and that should again be the case this season. It will be a league where a sixth-place team could again win the tournament championship and it not be considered an upset.

"In addition to the ACC games, we also face a very tough non-conference schedule. It will be even more difficult than last year because every opponent is consistently strong. There may be only one game on our schedule in which we will be heavily favored."

Tar

Nothing could be finer than basketball at Carolina!

If you don't believe that, just look at the records and accomplishments of Tar Heel teams and players over the years.

Since the sport began here in 1911, Carolina has posted a record of 1,105 wins and only 444 losses. Fifty-six of the school's 66 teams have had winning records.

Last year's great team had a fantastic 25-4 record, the fourth best in Tar Heel history and the third best in the modern era.

Carolina ranks with Kentucky and St. John's as the three teams with the best won-loss percentage over the last 50 years. Carolina is one of only a few schools which has won over 1,000 games.

The Tar Heels are one of only five teams to capture both a National Collegiate Athletic Association and National Invitation Tournament championship. The Tar Heels won the NCAA crown in 1957 with a perfect 32-0 record and then swept the NIT in 1971. Carolina also was voted national champion in 1924 with a 26-0 record.

Despite the University's long and storied basketball past, the sport has gotten even more popular here in the last decade. During the last 10 years, Carolina ranks with UCLA and Marquette as the winningest teams in America.

The Tar Heels have played in a national post-season tournament each of the past 10 years. The 1967, 1968, 1969, 1972 and 1975 teams won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and advanced into NCAA play. The Tar Heels won the Eastern Regionals in 1967, 1968, 1969 and 1972 and went on to the national finals. The 1970, 1971, 1973 and 1974 teams went to the NIT in New York.

Carolina has won the NCAA's Eastern Regional Tournament five times since 1946. No other school has won more than three.

In the past 10 years under Dean Smith, Carolina has won 246 games and lost only 61. That's roughly an average of 25-6 a season, one of the most amazing marks in collegiate athletics.

The Tar Heels have managed these feats against the toughest opposition in America. Carolina's schedule is annually ranked as one of the 10 toughest in the country.

Carolina plays big-name opponents from across the country. In recent seasons Carolina has met such opponents as Kentucky, Ohio State, St. John's, Utah, Louisville, Princeton, California, Houston, Florida State, Notre Dame, Alabama, Purdue, Pittsburgh and Providence.

But nowhere is the competition any keener than in Carolina's own league—the ACC. Teams in the conference, besides Carolina, are Clemson, Duke, Maryland, N.C. State, Virginia and Wake Forest.

The Tar Heel fame in basketball has even spread abroad. The Tar Heels have twice competed in the International Christmas Tournament at Madrid, Spain in the last six years.

Tournament play is nothing new for Carolina, however. The Tar Heels have won 34 tournament championships in the sport's 66 years in Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels have competed in such tournaments as the Far West Classic in Portland; the Holiday Festival in New York City; the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans; and the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu.

Carolina has had at least one player on each of the past four U.S. Olympic teams. Larry Brown, now coach of the Denver Nuggets, starred on the 1964 team which won the championship in Tokyo. Charlie Scott was a member of the 1968 championship team at Mexico City. Then Bobby Jones played on the 1972 squad in Munich.

In last summmer's Games at Montreal, Phil Ford, Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Mitch Kupchak all played key roles in the U.S. sweep of the Gold Medal. Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith was the U.S. coach.

There have been dozens of All-Americas at Carolina. Nine of them have played in the Dean Smith Era alone— Billy Cunningham, Bob Lewis, Larry Miller, Charlie Scott, Dennis Wuycik, Robert McAdoo, Bobby Jones, Mitch Kupchak and Phil Ford.

The crowds which turn out to see the Tar Heels play are proof of the sport's popularity in Chapel Hill. Every game is a sellout in beautiful Carmichael Auditorium. Students sleep at the Auditorium the night before they are to pick up tickets, just to be sure they get into the games. The pressbox is always filled to capacity at every home game.

Even the Tar Heel intrasquad games are sellouts. Many Tar Heel games are televised across the Eastern Seaboard.

These are just some of the reasons why truly nothing could be finer than basketball at Carolina.

Carolina Basketball –

When four North Carolina Tar Heels played key roles in the United States' sweep of the Olympic basketball Gold Medal last summer, it marked another in a long line of Tar Heel successes on the international level.

In recent years Carolina players and teams have traveled everywhere from the Great Wall of China to Red Square in Moscow to the beaches of Waikiki.

However, Carolina's impact on the international game may have reached an all-time high with the U. S. success in the Montreal Summer Games.

Mitch Kupchak, Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Phil Ford were all instrumental in the Americans' six-game sweep of the Olympics. So, of course, were Carolina Coach Dean Smith, who coached the U.S. team, and Bill Guthridge, his Tar Heel assistant who also worked with the Olympians.

The U.S. victory in Montreal brought the basketball Gold Medal to this country for the eighth time in nine Olympiads. Only in 1972 did the U.S. fail to win the Olympic basketball competition and that loss was a controversial one to the Soviet Union.

Still, it was a loss and many people felt it was a sign of things to come. Other countries were putting more emphasis on basketball and making great strides in the sport. Some thought American domination of the game had come to an end.

The main reason for this feeling was the fact that most countries have national teams that play together year round. The U.S. team is always an all-star team made up of players who have been together for only a matter of weeks.

In the past, the U.S. could make up for its lack of cohesiveness simply because it had more talented players. But, with players from other nations getting better and better, that edge was disappearing. Even some Americans said that basketball had become the sport of the Soviets, the Yugoslavs, the Italians and other European nations.

That, of course, simply made the U.S. accomplishment even more amazing.

Playing as a team and stressing defense and hitting the open man, the Americans devastated Italy in their first game. After edging a fired-up Puerto Rican team, the U.S. then whipped Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Canada in the semi-finals and Silver-Medalist Yugoslavia again in the finals.

Carolina's representation on the 1976 Olympic team was certainly nothing new. In fact, the Tar Heels have had players on the last four U.S. teams.

Larry Brown started this amazing streak in 1964 when he played on the winning U.S. team in Tokyo. Charlie Scott starred on the 1968 squad which swept the Olympic title in Mexico City. Bobby Jones was a member of the 1972 team at Munich.

Another Tar Heel, trainer John Lacey, is also an Olympic veteran. Lacey was the Olympic basketball trainer in 1964 and then was selected as the head trainer for the entire U.S. delegation at the 1972 Games.

While the Olympics rank at the top of Carolina's international and overseas competition, there have been plenty of other highlights as well.

Carolina players have been prominent in the last two Pan American Games. Robert McAdoo starred on the U.S. team in 1971, while Tommy LaGarde played on the winning American team in Mexico City in 1975. LaGarde was also a member of the U.S. Continental Cup Team which played games in the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, Greece and other parts of Europe in 1975.

Dennis Wuycik played on the U.S. pre-Olympic team which toured Europe in 1971.

In the spring of 1973, a Russian national team toured America, playing a U.S. all-star team. Two of the big stars in that series were George Karl and Bobby Jones.

Later that summer Karl became one of the first Americans ever to go to Red China. He was a member of a U.S. basketball team which played there and again was one of the American heroes.

In the fall of 1973 Mitch Kupchak played on the U.S. team which won the basketball championship at the World University Games in Moscow.

Carolina took its entire team to Madrid, Spain in 1971 and played in the International Christmas Tournament there. The Tar Heels swept past teams from Brazil and Spain in their first two games before facing Real Madrid, the European champion, in the finals.

In a game televised across Europe, the Tar Heels gave one of their finest performances to win the championship.

Carolina returned to Madrid in 1974, but was edged by the veteran Real Madrid team in the finals. The Tar Heels did pull a stunning upset, however, beating the powerful Cuban National Team on a last-second shot by Walter Davis.

Another of Carolina's greatest efforts came in 1972. Although not actually leaving the country, the Tar Heels did fly overseas to win the Rainbow Classic Tournament in Honolulu. With Karl, Kupchak and Jones leading the way, Carolina defeated Louisville for the championship there.

Tar Heel players have also made big names for themselves playing professional basketball in Europe. Doug Moe had the most success, three times being selected European Player of the Year. Other Tar Heels who have played in Europe include Dave Chadwick, Kim Huband, Craig Corson, Donn Johnston, John O'Donnell, Donald Washington, Ed Stahl and Bill Chambers.

Ferebee Taylor/ Chancellor

The top fan of the basketball Tar Heels is also the top man on the Carolina campus—Chancellor N. Ferebee Taylor.

"I'm proud of our athletic tradition," the Chancellor says, "and our basketball teams have always given us a lot to cheer about."

Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith hails Chancellor Taylor as one of his team's biggest boosters.

"We're happy we have a Chancellor who feels so strongly about athletics," says Smith. "He visits our practices regularly and rarely ever misses a game."

The Chancellor feels that the Athletic Department is an important part of the total University and expresses a hope that all students will make use of what it offers, either as participants or as spectators.

"At the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, we will continue to strive for excellence in our Athletic Department as we will in all other departments," says the Chancellor.

Chancellor Taylor is a graduate of Carolina, receiving an A.B. in American History in 1942. He was the first Jackson Scholar here (this scholarship was the first four-year grant) and he served as president of Phi Beta Kappa, making straight A's for three consecutive years.

He was president of the University Club, speaker of the Student Legislature and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail.

The Chancellor served in the Navy during World War II and reached the rank of lieutenant. After being released from active duty, he entered the Harvard Law School and received the LL.B. cum laude in 1949.

He then enrolled in Balliol College at Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar, receiving his B.A. in philosophy, politics and economics in 1951. He received his M.A. from Oxford in 1955.

Chancellor Taylor then practiced law in New York City until returning to Carolina in the spring of 1968 as a visiting professor at the UNC Law School.

He was named administrative vice-president of the Consolidated University in 1970 and served in that position until being unanimously selected by the Board of Trustees as the new Chancellor. He replaced J. Carlyle Sitterson.

In his administrative job with the Consolidated University, the Chancellor had served as a legal advisor and had acted as a liaison between the Board of Trustees and its committees.

Since assuming his present position, Chancellor Taylor has placed special emphasis on the public service aspect of the University. Many short courses, workshops and special projects have been organized, serving the entire state of North Carolina and its five-and-a-half-million people, as well as the students and residents of the University community.

Chancellor Taylor is married to the former Louise C. Ellington. They have three daughters—Louise, Sarah, and Martha.

Bill Cobey/ Athletic Director

The new director of athletics at the University of North Carolina is Bill Cobey, one of the most respected young administrators in collegiate sports.

Cobey was appointed athletic director last January after Homer Rice resigned to become the athletic director and head football coach at Rice University.

The man whom Chancellor Ferebee Taylor picked to head the Carolina athletic program is a regular spectator at most Tar Heel sports events. It makes no difference whether the sport is football, field hockey or soccer, if the Tar Heels are playing, Cobey is usually on the scene.

The fact that he is a fan of all Carolina teams is certainly one of the big reasons his selection by the Chancellor was hailed by all members of the UNC Athletic Department.

It was only after consulting with over 40 people connected with the Carolina athletic program that Chancellor Taylor made his decision.

"There is a clear consensus that Bill Cobey will make an outstanding director of athletics," said the Chancellor. "He is widely respected for his integrity, his knowledge of intercollegiate athletics and his performance as Homer Rice's assistant director in the past few years."

Rice was very pleased with the Chancellor's nomination.

"Bill was my choice from the very beginning to be the new athletic director," said Rice. "If I were to draw up a job description for the responsibilities of this position, Bill would fill every category."

Cobey has been interviewed by other schools over the last few years for high athletic positions. He says it has long been an ambition of his to be an athletic director at a major university.

Cobey's interest in sports came quite naturally. His father was Sunny Jim Tatum's assistant athletic director at the University of Maryland. When Tatum left College Park to become the head football coach at Carolina in 1956, Cobey's father was named his successor.

Even today Cobey gives his father and Tatum credit for what he has accomplished in athletics. He also says Rice has been a tremendous influence on him.

Like Rice, Cobey plans to stay out of the spotlight while getting his job done.

"The attention should go to our athletes and coaches," he says. "Administrators don't need to get any fanfare.

"Our goal will be to carry on the great tradition Carolina has had in intercollegiate athletics. We will work towards maintaining a strong, overall program."

Cobey, 36, is only the fourth man to head the Carolina athletic program.

The late Bob Fetzer was Carolina's first athletic director, serving from 1922 until 1951. He was followed by Charles P. (Chuck) Erickson who held the post until his retirement in May, 1968. Rice succeeded Erickson the following January.

Cobey is currently in his ninth year of work at the University. He had held three different and important posts before becoming athletic director. Most recently, he had served as assistant athletic director for promotions and finance. In that role, he was Rice's chief assistant.

Cobey came to Chapel Hill in 1968 as the academic counselor for Bill Dooley's football team. In that position, he advised Tar Heel players on their academic work, served as a counselor for them in any personal problems they might have had and also was Dooley's administrative assistant.

In 1971 Cobey became assistant athletic director for operations at the University. He was directly responsible for the running of Kenan Stadium and Carmichael Auditorium on the days of football and basketball games. He also worked closely with Athletic Business Manager Vernon Crook in matters dealing with finances.

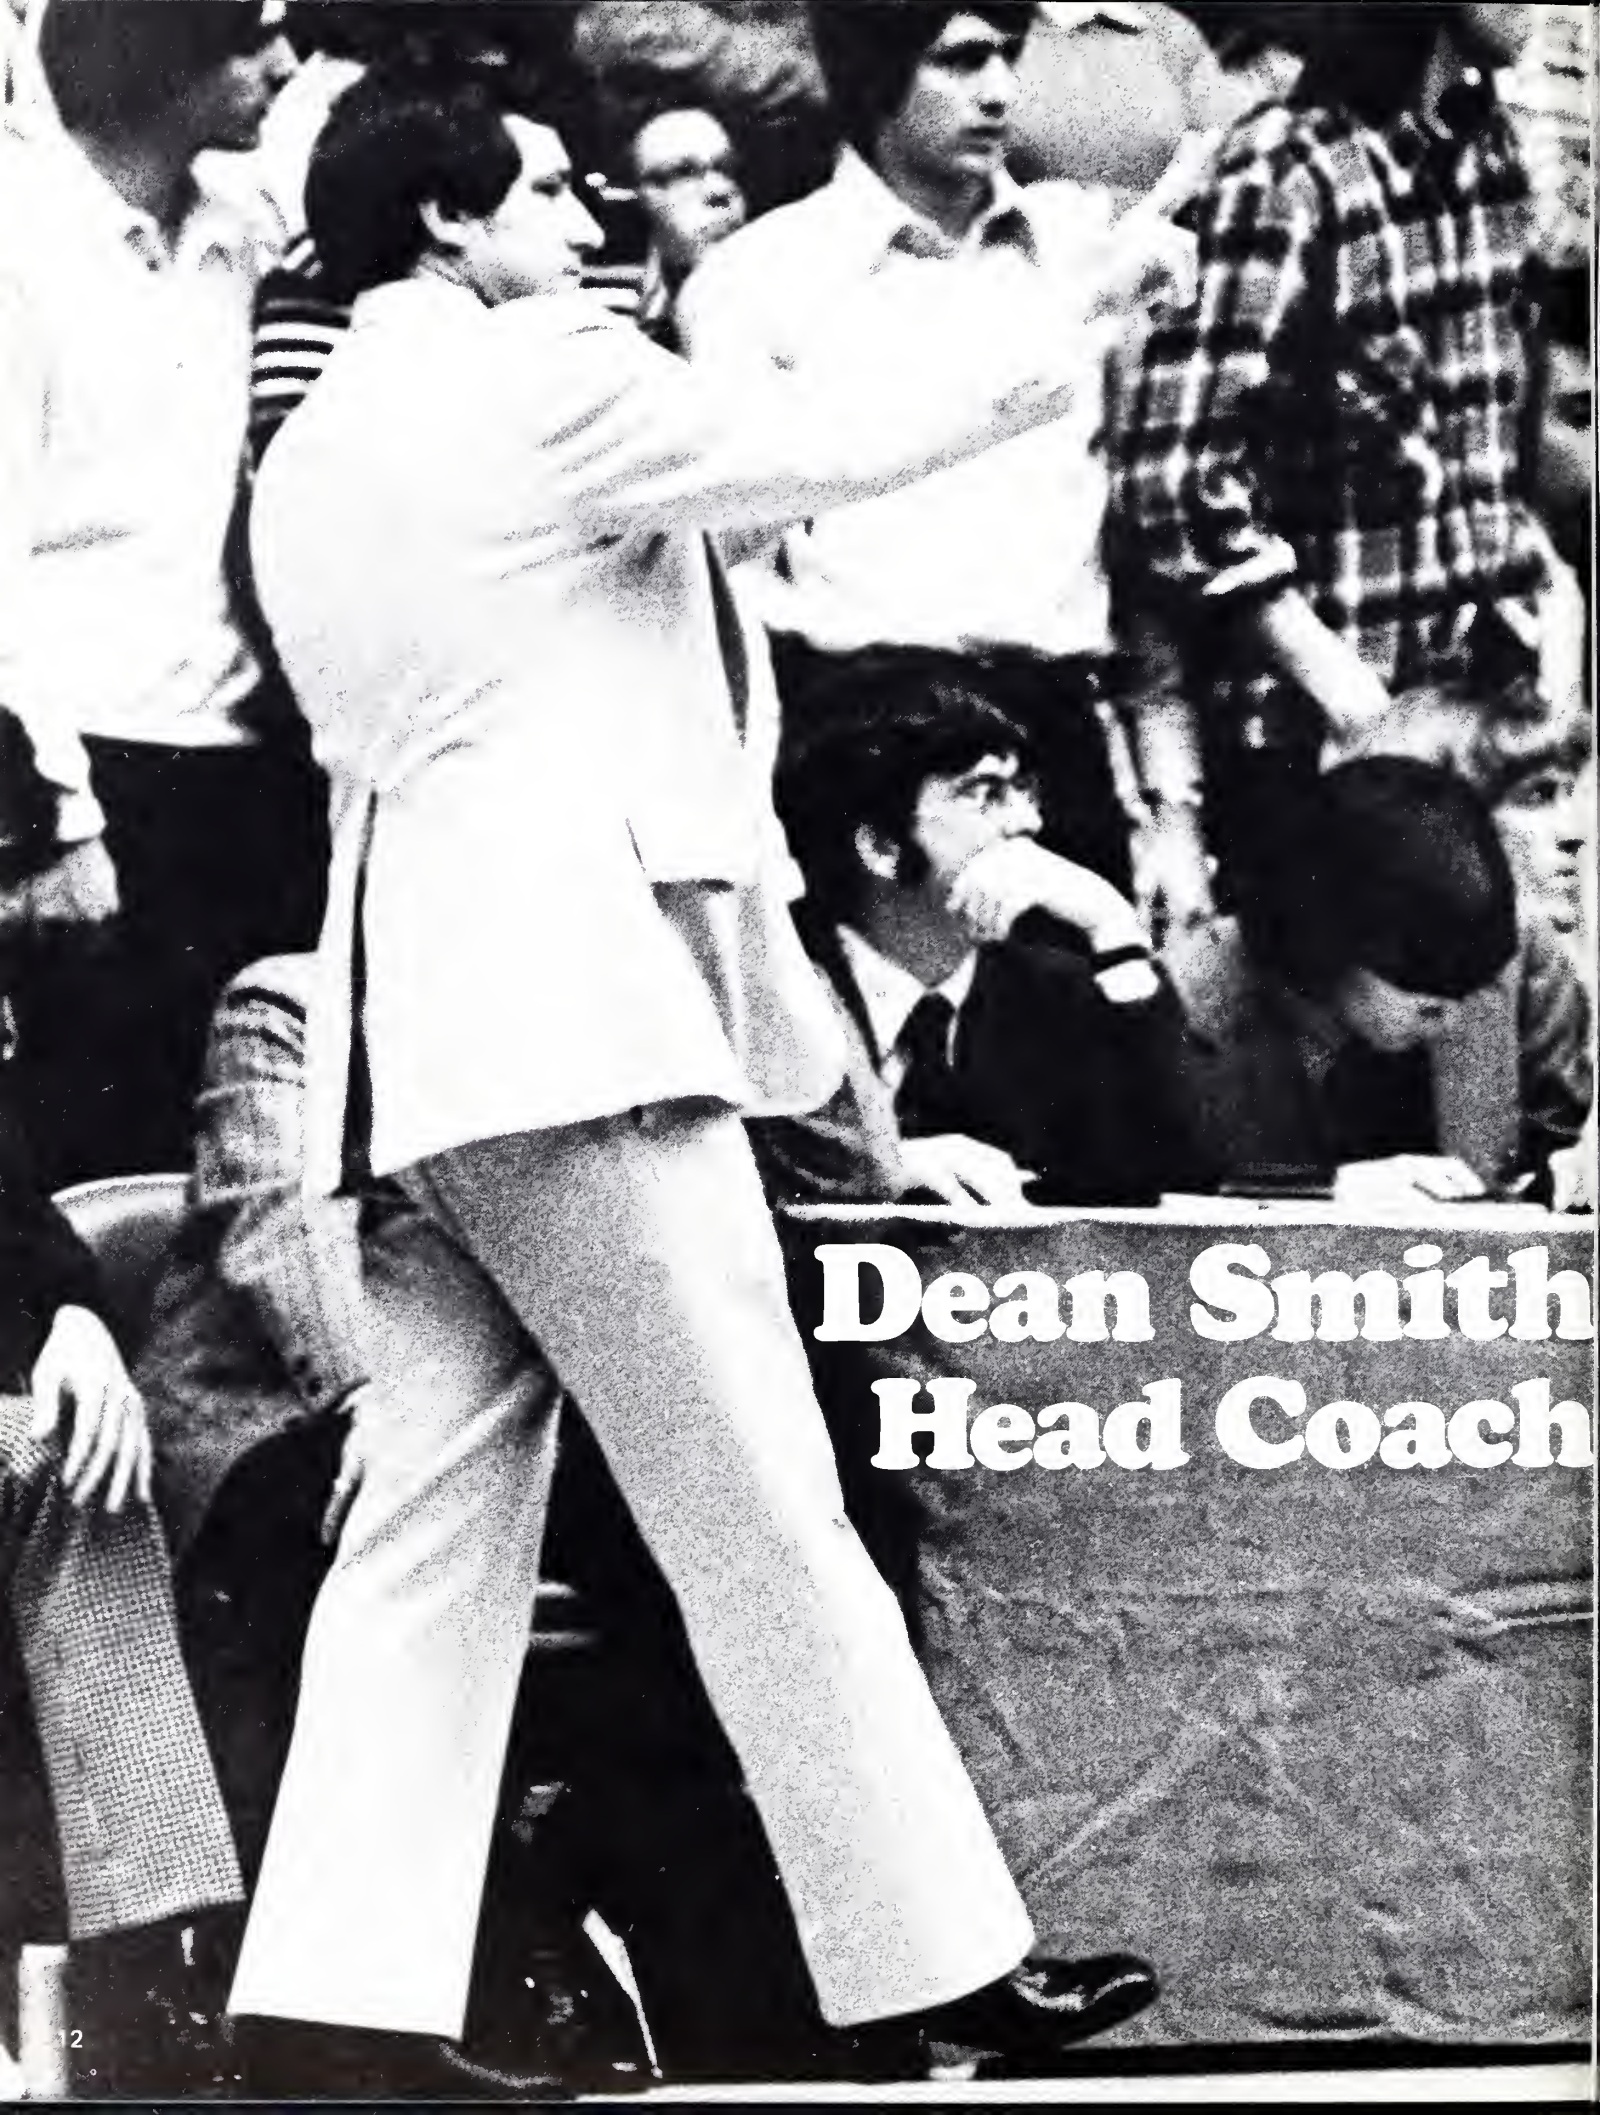
Cobey is a graduate of Emory University in Atlanta (1962). He received a masters degree in business from the University of Pennsylvania. After a brief time of working with the Dow

Chemical Company, Cobey returned to school at the University of Pittsburgh and earned a masters degree in education.

During his time at Pittsburgh, Cobey took part in a graduate teaching internship program there. He was a member of the football staff at West Mifflin North High School and taught physical education in the public schools.

Since coming to Chapel Hill Cobey has been very active in community affairs. He is currently President of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro YMCA and a former assistant campaign chairman of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro United Fund. He is a member of the East Chapel Hill Rotary Club.

Cobey is married to the former Nancy Sullivan of College Park, Md. They have two children, Cathy (11) and Billy (four). The Cobeys are members of the University United Methodist Church.



Dean Smith
Head Coach

The man who coached the Olympic team which brought the Gold Medal back to the United States is Dean Smith, head coach at the University of North Carolina, who is beginning his 16th season with one of the greatest records and reputations in the history of the college game.

Smith's Tar Heels posted a brilliant 25-4 record a year ago against one of the most difficult schedules in America. Carolina swept 11 of 12 Atlantic Coast Conference games and again advanced into NCAA Tournament play.

Smith and his teams have now won five of the last 10 ACC Tournament championships and have captured the Eastern Regional crown four times in that stretch. In the same 10-year period, the Tar Heels have won the regular-season ACC championship six times and never finished lower than second in the league standings.

Not only has Smith won more games than any coach in Carolina's great basketball history, but he also has won more ACC titles than any man ever to coach in the conference.

One of his greatest accomplishments came last summer when he guided the United States Olympic Basketball Team to a sweep of the Summer Games in Montreal.

In only a few weeks he molded a college all-star team into a close-knit unit. However, the Americans faced the tremendous challenge of competing against international teams which had been playing together for years.

But, with Smith emphasizing a tough pressure defense and team play on offense, the United States regained the Gold Medal it had lost in the controversial 1972 Games.

Four of Smith's Tar Heels played key roles in the Olympic sweep —Mitch Kupchak, Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Phil Ford. In fact, Carolina players have been prominent figures on each of the past four Olympic teams. Larry Brown starred in the 1964 Games at Tokyo; Charlie Scott helped win the championship in Mexico City in 1968; and Bobby Jones played on the 1972 team at Munich.

Smith's Olympic triumph was just another in a long line of his remarkable successes. His 15-year record at Carolina is now 312-108. That's a percentage of .743 against some of the toughest competition in America. His record in the last decade is 246-61, a percentage over .800. That gives his teams an average record of 25-6 in that period.

Carolina has been to a national post-season tournament each of the past 10 years. The Tar Heels won the National Invitation Tournament in 1971.

There have been only six coaches who have taken a team to the NCAA Final Four at least four times. Smith accomplished that feat in his first 11 years at Carolina. No other coach has done it that quickly.

How does Smith work all this magic? It's a combination of things. He has tremendous rapport with his players, he is a master teacher and his style of play gets amazing results.

Carolina teams under Smith are known for unselfish play, great teamwork and a tenacious man-to-man defense. Although the Tar Heels specialize in a whirlwind, fast-breaking offense, they also have a disciplined attack and usually lead the nation in field goal percentage. The Tar Heels have also led the ACC in scoring five of the last nine years.

Among Smith's many innovations are his run-and-jump defense, the mixing of pressure defenses, the point zone, team huddles at the foul line, foul lane alignment, the free lance passing game and the famed four-corners offense.

His defensive and offensive schemes are constantly studied by other coaches across the country and around the world. Many college, professional and foreign coaches visit the Tar Heel campus during the off-season to get advice from Smith. His high school coaching clinic is one of the most popular in the nation.

In fact, Smith's innovations have actually changed the course of the college game. As University of South Florida Coach Chip Connor put it last year, "Dean Smith has had more impact on the game than anybody in the past 10 years."

Smith has been offered numerous other coaching jobs, both on the college and professional level. He has turned them all down and says he has no desire to coach in the pros.

"The biggest enjoyment of coaching is working with young players," he says. "I take special pride in their development. I've always been very happy living here in Chapel Hill."

Smith's success at Carolina has been shared by those around him. Two of his assistants, Kenny Rosemond and John Lotz, left Carolina to take head coaching jobs in the Southeastern Conference. Another former aide, Larry Brown is a successful professional coach with the Denver Nuggets. Smith's current assistants, Bill Guthridge and Eddie Fogler, have both turned down head coaching jobs to remain at Carolina.

In the last 10 years alone, 16 of Smith's players have gone on to play professional basketball. They include former ABA Player of the Year Billy Cunningham, NBA scoring champion and Player of the Year Robert McAdoo, perennial all-star Charlie Scott, defensive star Bobby Jones, hustling George Karl, and hard working Darrell Elston.

A native of Emporia, Kansas, Smith attended the University of Kansas on an academic scholarship. He played freshman football, varsity basketball and baseball there. He was a member of the Jayhawk basketball team which won the national championship in 1952 and finished second in 1953.

Smith was assistant basketball coach and baseball coach at the Air Force Academy in 1958 when he was brought to Carolina by Frank McGuire, then the Tar Heel coach. When McGuire left to join the professional ranks in 1961, Smith was named the head coach.

Caught with slim material, his first team had an 8-9 record. There have been no losers since then and the odds are that there never will be.

Carolina has swept the unbelievable total of 18 tournament championships since Smith took the head coaching job. The Tar Heels captured five tournament titles during the 1971-72 season alone.

Smith is a great good-will ambassador for the University. He is called upon to lecture at basketball clinics all over the world. He has been a member of the national rules committee. Smith makes numerous speeches each year. His basketball camp for youngsters is so popular that he never advertises it.

In his spare time, Smith enjoys golf, playing tennis, spinning records and reading books on a variety of subjects. He has a special interest in theology.

Smith's three children are all students at Carolina. Mrs. Sharon Kepley, who was recently married, is a senior; daughter Sandy, a junior; and Scott, a freshman.

Smith's wife, Linnea, is a physician at North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

Bill Guthridge/ Coach

Dean Smith's chief assistant at North Carolina and the man who helped him with the U. S. Olympic basketball team is Bill Guthridge, one of the best coaches in the game today.

Guthridge, entering his 10th year on the Tar Heel staff, has a thorough knowledge of all aspects of the profession—teaching, organizing, motivating and recruiting. He works closely with Smith in all phases of the Carolina program.

Guthridge's reputation is so outstanding that his name is usually mentioned every time there is a major college coaching vacancy. He has turned down several head jobs and has had his name withdrawn from consideration for others.

"Bill is one of the top coaches in America, and that includes head coaches as well as assistants," says Smith. "His record as an assistant here and at Kansas State has been tremendous. He has made great contributions to both programs."

Guthridge also was a key factor in the United States' Olympic basketball victory last summer. In addition to helping Smith with the day-to-day coaching duties, he also scouted the Americans' opponents.

In his nine years at Carolina, Bill has helped guide the Tar Heels to nine post-season tournaments, four Atlantic Coast Conference championships and the National Invitation Tournament title in 1971.

While assisting with the varsity, Guthridge has also coached Carolina freshman and junior varsity teams, compiling a six-year record of 72-25 and winning the Big Four championship four times.

Smith gives him much of the credit for developing the players who have kept Carolina among the top basketball powers in the nation.

Coach Guthridge has worked a great deal with both Carolina's offensive and defensive schemes. He is currently the Tar Heels' chief shooting instructor. It is no coincidence that Carolina has shot better than 50 per cent from the field and 70 per cent from the free throw line for the past five years, including 52.6 from the floor and 75.1 from the foul line last season.

Before coming to Chapel Hill, Guthridge was an assistant coach at Kansas State, his alma mater. During his time there, the Wildcats posted a 93-43 record, swept two Big Eight titles and once advanced to the NCAA semi-finals.

A native of Parsons, Kan., Guthridge played his high school basketball for Harold Johnson, one of two brothers who were the innovators of the zone press in the 1930's.

Guthridge went on to play for Kansas State in the years the Wildcats reigned as Big Eight champions—1958, 1959 and 1960. He was chosen as one of the University's 13 most outstanding all-around seniors.

Following graduation, Bill coached for two years at Scott City (Kan.) High before returning to his alma mater as an assistant to the famed Tex Winter.

Besides working with Smith and Winter, two of the great names in coaching, Guthridge has also coached in Puerto Rican summer leagues for two years. He was once named coach of the year and was invited to coach the Puerto Rican team in the 1968 Olympics, but had to turn down the offer because of his work at Carolina.

"Not only is Bill an astute basketball technician," says Smith, "but he also is an excellent teacher. He is highly respected by the players who have been through our program. He is sincere in his recruiting and I think this has made him a favorite of prospective student-athletes and their families. He is a man of great integrity."

Unlike many coaches, Guthridge says he actually enjoys recruiting.

"Some people say recruiting is undesirable," says Guthridge. "But my experiences have been very enjoyable. I think that has a lot to do with the type of young man which our university attracts."

Guthridge, who got his B.S. in mathematics, has a master's degree in education and has taken courses at Carolina toward his Ph.D.

While basketball is his game, Bill is also a keen follower of other sports. When he can find some spare time, he likes to play golf.

Guthridge has an excellent sense of humor and is one of the most popular after-dinner speakers in the Carolina athletic department.

Bill and his wife Leesie have two sons, Jamie, 16, and Stuart, 13, and a daughter, Megan, four-and-a-half.

Eddie Fogler/Coach

Eddie Fogler, who helped guide Carolina to two Atlantic Coast Conference championships as a player, is now working that same magic as a coach.

Fogler, now beginning his fourth year as a Tar Heel assistant, knows the game very well. He has also become a top-flight recruiter and travels extensively for Coach Dean Smith.

"Eddie has unusual sincerity in recruiting and he is an excellent recruiter because of this sincerity," says Smith. "He has a genuine love for the University and as a result, he can present it well."

Fogler has a solid background in fundamental basketball. He learned the game as a youngster in New York City against excellent competition. In fact, he is one of the few players ever to make the all-city team twice. He then gained valuable insights while playing for Smith at Carolina.

"Eddie brings a bright mind to the coaching profession," says Smith. "He really was like an assistant coach on the floor in his playing days here when he quarterbacked some of our championship teams. He's a hard worker and has great enthusiasm for the sport. I think he's got a great future in coaching."

A New York City native, Fogler played guard on Tar Heel teams from 1967 to 1970. The 1968 and 1969 teams won Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional championships and advanced to the national finals. In his senior season, the Tar Heels played in the National Invitation Tournament.

A play-making guard, Fogler is considered one of the best ballhandlers and finest passers in Carolina history. He still ranks as one of the Tar Heels' all-time leaders in assists.

After receiving a bachelor's degree in mathematics in 1970, Fogler spent a year teaching and coaching at De-Matha High School in Washington, D. C. and was in charge of the De-Matha junior varsity.

He returned to Chapel Hill in the fall of 1971 as a graduate assistant. Fogler worked that season with the Carolina freshmen and also helped with recruiting and scouting. He earned his master's degree in 1972.

Fogler became a full-time staff member in 1973 and has made valuable contributions to the Tar Heel program. In fact, his reputation has grown so quickly that he has already received a head coaching offer from a major college. However, he says he's perfectly happy in Chapel Hill.

"Of course, I think about being a head coach," he says, "but that is in the distant future. Right now, I couldn't find a better place to work than here."

Fogler is one of the most popular members of the athletic staff. He enjoys playing all sports in his spare time. Fogler is a bachelor.

John Lacey/Head Trainer

John Lacey, one of the most respected men in his profession, heads an outstanding staff of athletic trainers at the University of North Carolina.

Lacey, beginning his 21st year in Chapel Hill, will once again be the head trainer for Carolina's basketball team. He will work directly with Dr. Joseph DeWalt and Dr. Robert Lindsay, who head Carolina's outstanding Division of Sports Medicine.

Throughout his illustrious career, Lacey has been associated with championship teams and great athletes. He has worked with eight football bowl teams, five of them at Carolina.

One of his greatest honors came in 1972 when he was selected head trainer of the United States delegation to the Olympic Games in Munich. It was Lacey's second Olympic experience. He had served as trainer of the U. S. basketball team in the 1964 Games at Tokyo.

Lacey came to Carolina in 1956 from Maryland when the late Sunny Jim Tatum was named the Tar Heel football coach. While at Maryland, Lacey served three bowl teams and worked with squads which won national championships in lacrosse and football.

At Carolina, Lacey went to the 1963 Gator Bowl with the Tar Heels and has recently worked with the four bowl teams of Bill Dooley.

He was also trainer of the 1957 Carolina basketball team which swept the national championship and the 1971 team which won the National Invitation Tournament.

His background also includes a stint as trainer with three professional football teams—the Chicago Rockets, New York Yankees and Baltimore Colts.

A native of Wallingford, Conn., Lacey studied at the Yale University Department of Physical Therapy and at the Tilton School in Tilton, N. H.

Lacey is married to the former Barbara Koch of Wallingford.

A dramatic moment in Carmichael - Walter Davis' shot at the buzzer ties Duke and forces an overtime. Carolina goes on to win, 96-92.

The home of the Carolina Tar Heels is beautiful Carmichael Auditorium, or "Blue Heaven" as it is known by Carolina fans.

It is not exactly a heaven for visiting teams, however, because few of them win in Chapel Hill. In fact the Tar Heel record at home stands at 89-12 since the arena opened in 1965.

Carmichael is always packed with overflow crowds of partisan, enthusiastic Tar Heel fans. In the past nine years, Carolina has played before 79 sellout crowds in 83 appearances in Chapel Hill.

Carmichael is located in the tall pine trees at the heart of the Carolina campus. It is considered one of the most beautiful basketball arenas in the country.

The Auditorium has been the home of five Atlantic Coast Conference championship teams, four Eastern Regional champions and one National Invitation Tournament champion. Carolina captured its 1,000th victory at Carmichael five years ago, defeating Virginia, 91-78.

Students wait in long lines for a chance to see a game in Carmichael. In fact, they often sleep in the auditorium halls the night before tickets are distributed for games.

Several hundred seats were added to Carmichael in the past off-season, pushing the seating capacity to 10,000.

Most of the Carolina athletic offices are located in Carmichael. Athletic Director Bill Cobey and Basketball Coach Dean Smith have their offices there. The halls are lined with sketches of many of Carolina's most outstanding athletes and there are five trophy cases containing awards and pictures from all sports.

The Auditorium is named for the late William D. Carmichael, Jr., one of the most popular gentlemen ever to serve on the University campus. He left a lucrative Wall Street business to become associated with Carolina.

In Chapel Hill, Carmichael was comptroller and later vice-president of the Consolidated University. He also served for a time as the Consolidated University's acting president. He died in 1961.

The Auditorium adjoins Woolen Gymnasium, long-time site of varsity competition and now the center of Carolina's physical education and intramural activities.

The University

Nestled in the rolling foothills of Piedmont North Carolina is Chapel Hill, home of the University of North Carolina.

The late artist William Meade Prince once described the town and University as "The Southern Part of Heaven." It is a tag richly deserved.

Time Magazine has called Chapel Hill "One of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States." It is a town without pretense, one in which the fellow wearing the $150 suit may run a small cafe, while his conversational partner, looking worn and tattered, may well be a successful novelist.

The school itself is the oldest state university in the nation, first admitting students in 1795 while George Washington was President. However, it was not until after Reconstruction that Carolina began making the rapid progress that has lifted it to the top of southern education.

There are currently 14 schools at Carolina and more than 70 departments and other academic-affiliated divisions and institutes.

Strong in both the humanities and the sciences, the University also has a School of Business Administration of special potency, commensurate with the growing industrial might of the mid-South.

Carolina is one of six universities in the nation with a full range of health professional schools, including medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, nursing and public health. North Carolina Memorial Hospital is the University's teaching and research hospital and is a teaching center for hundreds of clinics in 100 North Carolina counties.

Among the dozens of institutes and specialized programs affiliated with that division are the Health Services Research Center, the Hand Rehabilitation Center, the Child Development and Mental Retardation Research Institute and the Dental Research Center, each of which is one of only a few centers of its kind in the country.

Carolina is one of the largest and top-ranking universities in the nation. A recent rating of graduate schools by the American Council on Education put 12 UNC graduate departments in the highest category and 12 in the second highest. That made Carolina the leader of all universities, public or private, in the Southeast.

Alan Carter of the ACE describes Carolina as "the leading southern university, a liberal voice in the region."

In annual choices made by southern graduate scholars in the Rockefeller grants, more select graduate study in Chapel Hill than any other place.

The University is continuing to grow as it strives to keep pace with today's changing world. Growth has been especially tremendous in the last 20 years. Those two decades have seen the establishment of the School of Journalism, the School of Business Administration, the Carolina Population Center, the WUNC-TV educational television station, the Ackland Art Center and a new computer system.

In that same time buildings have multiplied; student enrollment has reached nearly 20,000; the faculty has grown to over 1,200; new courses have been added to the curriculum and old ones revised; adult education courses have expanded; and scholarship and development programs have grown.

Here are some other facts of interest about one of America's great academic institutions:

*Carolina's Morehead Planetarium, the first ever built on a college campus, is one of the most sophisticated in the world. Since 1960, American astronauts in the Mercury, Gemini, Apollo-Skylab and Apollo-Soyuz programs have been trained in celestial navigation at the Planetarium. It is equipped with the world's most advanced planetarium instrument, the Zeiss Model VI projector—one of five in existence in the world. The Morehead Building also includes a 35-foot walk-in model Copernican Orrey, one of two in the world. It demonstrates how planets revolve around the sun while rotating on their axes and the moons revolve around the planets.

*The Walnut Rotunda of the Planetarium contains a distinguished collection of 17th and 18th century paintings, including works by Rembrandt, Anthony Van Dyck, Thomas Gainsborough, Henry Raeburn, Rembrandt Peale and others.

*Thirty-one of North Carolina's 50 governors have been Carolina graduates.

*One of the best-known organizations on campus is the Carolina Playmakers. Former members include Thomas Wolfe, Paul Green and Betty Smith.

*James K. Polk, an 1818 graduate, became the 11th President of the United States.

*The William Hayes Ackland Memorial Art Center contains European and American art objects dating from 3,000 B.C. through the major periods of Western art, and is especially rich in French 19th Century paintings.

*The Institute of Government on campus is a training center for city, county and state officials and employees. It is also involved in research and consultations for state and local governments.

*The University's television network feeds programs into North Carolina public schools.

*The W. C. Coker Arboretum is a five-acre naturalistic garden on the east edge of the historic campus, containing 400 varieties of ornamental plants and shrubs.

*The Libraries consist of Louis Round Wilson Library, a research library in the humanities and social science; the Robert B. House Undergraduate Library; and more than a dozen school and departmental collections which total nearly three million volumes.

*The Music Library in Hill Hall is the largest of its kind in the South with over 60,000 volumes of books and scores and more than 10,000 recordings.

*The North Carolina Research Laboratories of Anthropology is a repository for more than two million artifacts, most of them uncovered by the museum's own excavations and is considered to be one of the primary sources for archaeological research in the South.

*Another feature is the Institute for Research in Social Science, an organization performing fact-finding duties in sociology, economics, humanities, statistics, journalism and other fields, including race relations, urban studies and regional development.

But perhaps the most outstanding feature of the University is the gentle way the new has been blended with the old to form one of the most beautiful campuses in the world.

Ivy-covered buildings and tree-lined walkways surround spacious, grassy greens where students lounge between classes. Tall pines cover south campus where modern buildings are under construction.

In direct contrast are Gerard Hall, built in 1837, and Old East, the oldest state university building in the nation. The cornerstone to Old East was laid in 1793 and the dorm was dedicated as a national shrine in 1966.

Other famous and beautiful spots around campus include the Old Well, the Carolina Inn, the Davie Poplar, the botanical gardens and Gimghoul Castle.

Despite the changes and growth, the basic beauty of this area remains the same. It still truly is "The Southern Part of Heaven."

A Town Touched by Strange Magic

The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of this Town as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no seas, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occasions such as the big football games.

Not, really, a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such . . . None of us will go so far as to say that it possesses the tranquillity and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond . . . It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resources of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their backslapping counterparts of the cities . . . Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility . . . Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across .he way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy, sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns . . . But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge but, strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball . . . Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis . . . Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly disimilar tastes . . . A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor . . . A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author . . . A university department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his own intellectual level and prefers his company. . . but Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest about their children and grandchildren . . . That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

Carolina's G

Out of the exciting past of Carolina basketball have come some of the greatest names the game has ever known—from Cartwright Carmichael and Jack Cobb of the Roaring Twenties to Robert McAdoo and Bobby Jones of the Sizzling Seventies.

It all started way back in 1911 when the Tar Heels fielded their first team and the sport has been getting bigger and bigger ever since. Few universities in the United States have produced as many All-America players as Carolina and the list grows longer almost every year.

Carolina first hit the big-time in the sport in 1924 when the Tar Heels won 26 games in a row and swept the National championship. Stars of that great team were Cobb, Carmichael and Monk McDonald.

While the style of play has changed drastically since then, these men are still recognized as three of Carolina's greatest stars. Cobb, in fact, is a member of the Helms Basketball Hall of Fame.

Although the Tar Heels did not have an All-America like Cobb in the 1930s, there were many outstanding players. Ivan (Jack) Glace, Earl Ruth, Virgil Weathers, Tom Alexander, Jim McCachren and Stewart (Snooks) Aitken made the All-Southern Conference team during that era.

The big star of the early 1940s was George Glamack—"The Blind Bomber." Glamack had terrible eyesight and could barely see the basket while standing right under it. However, he developed the uncanny sense of knowing where the hoop was in relation to his position on the court. He perfected a hook shot which he shot with either hand and with great accuracy. He was a two-time All-America, Helms Player of the Year in 1941 and now is in the Hall of Fame.

All-America John (Hook) Dillon was the star of the 1946 team which lost to Oklahoma A and M and big Bob Kurland in the national finals. Dillon, however, had an excellent supporting cast in Jim Jordan, Bones McKinney, Jim White and Bob Paxton. Jordon, in fact, had been an All-America in 1945 and the Most Valuable Player in the Southern Conference.

Eleven years later, the Tar Heels again reached the national finals. This time, they won, defeating Wilt Chamberlain and Kansas in a triple overtime thriller that rates among the greatest college games ever.

Lean Lennie Rosenbluth was the star of that team. He was named National Player of the Year. Rosenbluth was a great shooter and still holds the UNC career scoring record. Other starters on that team were Pete Brennan (who made All-America the next year), Tommy Kearns, Joe Quigg and Bob Cunningham.

The stars were many during the 1960s. Big Lee Shaffer was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1960. Shaffer was a great scorer and later became an all-star performer in the National Basketball Association with the Syracuse Nationals.

York Larese and Doug Moe also starred for the Tar Heels in the early part of the decade. Larese ranks as one of the greatest free throw shooters in Carolina history. Moe was a sensational all-around star and now coaches the San Antonio Spurs.

A teammate of Moe's was Larry Brown, a diminutive guard who rates as one of the finest playmakers in Carolina history. Brown played on the 1964 U.S. Olympic team which swept the Gold Medal. He now coaches the Denver Nuggets.

Billy Cunningham, a three-time All-ACC selection, was the next star on the Carolina scene. He made All-America in 1965. The "Kangaroo Kid" went on to become a great professional star with the Philadelphia 76ers.

Bob Lewis, a thin sharpshooter from Washington, D.C., stepped into Cunningham's shoes as the next super performer. He holds the Carolina school scoring record with 49 points against Florida State.

One of Carolina's greatest players was Larry Miller, an All-Ameriea in 1968 when he led his team to the national finals where the Tar Heels lost to Lew Alcindor and UCLA. Miller twice was named ACC Player of the Year. Playing at 6-4 and 215 pounds, he was a rugged performer who dazzled crowds with driving layups and a great variety of shots.

Bill Bunting, Dick Grubar and Rusty Clark were Carolina starters on teams which won three straight ACC regular season and tournament championships, swept three Eastern Regionals in a row and went to the final four in the nation.

Bunting had a great senior season and made All-ACC. Grubar was one of the most popular athletes to wear Carolina Blue and was a sparkling playmaker and scorer. Clark was a tough defensive performer and a great rebounder.

Then there was Charlie Scott—who may have been the greatest of them all. Charlie excelled in every phase of the game. He made All-America in his senior season and was voted ACC Athlete of the Year. In 1968, he starred for the United States in the Olympie Games.

Three brilliant frontcourt players—Bill Chamberlain, Dennis Wuycik and Robert McAdoo—sparked Carolina teams in the early 1970's. Chamberlain was the Most Valuable Player in the 1971 National Invitation Tournament as the Tar Heels swept that title. Wuycik was a fine shooter and a rugged, aggressive rebounder. McAdoo had a great shooting touch and was an excellent rebounder. They led the Tar Heels to the NCAA Final Four in 1972.

Then came George Karl, another highly popular player who amazed fans with his daring and diving on the court. He started for three years and made the All-ACC team.

One of the most complete players to play the college game was Bobby Jones. Jones had great quickness and was a sensational defender. He's already a big star in the NBA.

The most recent Carolina superstar was Mitch Kupchak. Kupchak was the ACC Player of the Year last season as he led Carolina to a brilliant 25-4 record. Like Jones, he was a fine all-around player.

With players like Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Phil Ford still at Carolina, the list of the Tar Heels' all-time greats is sure to get longer and longer in the next two years.

(DEADBALL REBOUNDS: UNC-52; OPP-61)

Carolina players are ranked in the UNC statistics by a composite rating of field goal accuracy, free throw accuracy, rebounds, assists, points, steals and blocked shots. The leader in each category gets 16 points, the second 15, etc. Thus, the highest any player can score is 112.0. Some offensive statistics and most defensive statistics are not included in this system.

BLOCKED SHOTS: Kupchak-32, Davis-16, LaGarde-15, Crompton-4, Kuester-4, Hanners-1, Bradley-1, Ford-1.

PERSONAL FOULS: LaGarde-89, Davis-83, Kupchak-77, Ford-72, Kuester-74, Buckley-51, Hanners-43, Zaliagiris-19, Bradley-24, Chambers-12, Coley-8, Harry-2, Crompton-7, Valentine-4, Lutz-1, Wiel-1. (UNC TOTALS-567, OPP TOTALS-699).

Ernie Williamson

The man who stands at the helm of the Educational Foundation is popular and capable Ernie Williamson, the executive vice-president.

The former star Carolina tackle is one of the most active individuals on the Tar Heel sports scene. He's constantly on the go—talking with Foundation members, speaking to prospective members or avidly following all of Carolina's athletic teams.

Williamson is a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va. played one season of football here under the late Carl Snavely and was regarded as an outstanding tackle.

He was lured away to professional football and played with Los Angeles and Washington before a knee injury ended his career.

Ernie returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees and then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was an assistant coach there for two years and head coach for three seasons.

He returned to Carolina in 1957 to accept his present position. At one time he also served as a recruiter for the Tar Heel football team.

He is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va. They have a son, Wayne, and a daughter, Carole.

Educational Foundation

One of the most important organizations in the Carolina Athletic Department is the University's Educational Foundation.

It is the Educational Foundation which makes possible all athletic scholarships awarded by Carolina.

As the Tar Heel sports program has grown through the years, the Foundation has done likewise. It is the enthusiasm and generosity of Foundation members which allows Carolina to field its excellent athletic teams.

"Interest reaches a new peak every year," says Ernie Williamson, the Foundation's executive vice-president. "There are many reasons for this, but the most important has been our great success in all sports the last few years."

The Educational Foundation currently has over 2,500 members who finance a scholarship program that costs over $700,000 a year.

"Since its inauguration in 1938, the Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, for over 2,200 student-athletes," says Williamson. "The majority of these athletes are anxious to return contributions which would enable us to award scholarships to others."

Williamson has always contended that a donation to the Foundation is not specifically a donation to athletics. He says that the high caliber young athlete who is awarded a scholarship is a great representative of the University.

Williamson feels the overall bonus is in helping a worthy young student obtain a college education. Athletics come second.

Any donation to the Educational Foundation is welcome. However, membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $100 or more.

Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program was started in 1968 and has been quite successful.

"We have life members of $10,000 and $25,000, endowed scholarships of $50,000 and have just recently enlisted 100 members who have purchased $50,000 scholarships through life insurance," says Williamson. "Several members have also indicated they have included the Foundation in their wills and bequests to enable continued success in the future."

Foundation members receive priority on seat locations in football and basketball. A special room on the south wing of Kenan Field House serves as a meeting place for Rams and their families. This area is open two hours before football games and provides a lounge and picnic facilities for those who come early.

"A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," Williamson points out. "Many of our finest members did not attend Carolina, however. They just heard about our program and felt it was worthy."

It is important to point out that all donations to the Foundations are tax deductible.

ORIGIN AND INCORPORATION

Three loyal and athletic-minded University of North Carolina alumni met in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure at Raleigh in December of 1938 and organized the Educatonal Foundation, Inc.

The men were John Umstead, Jr. of Chapel Hill, Max Abernethy of Raleigh, and Benton Stacy of Reidsville.

A charter was drawn with these three men as the incorporators and submitted to the late O. Max Gardner, who had his law firm clear it with the Internal Revenue Department as a charitable organization. The charter was issued December 7, 1938.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Educational Foundation, Inc., is to raise funds for providing scholarships or grants-in-aid at the University to worthy and qualified high school students with athletic ability.

The Educational Foundation, Inc. operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessing and good will of all the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status similar to that of the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation, and other money-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

The full amount of all donations of Foundation members is used for scholarships and grants. The organization has no administrative expense.
